THE EVENING STAR. BARGAINS FOR ONE DAY.

WASHINGTON: WEDNESDAY February 5, 1890.

CROSBY S. NOYES Editor. THE EVENING STAR has the fullest Local Circulation of any Newspaper in the World, and as an Advertising Medium is worth more than all the other papers published lu Washington.

New York Office: Room 93, Tribune Building.

It has been suggested in the discussion of proposed changes in the law regulating the office of recorder of deeds for the District that the adoption of a shorter form of deed would be of advantage. Undoubtedly the substitution of the brief modern forms for the old fashioned and verbose conveyances would benefit the general public, although it might reduce the conveyancer's and recorder's fees. The District needs modern legislation in a great many respects, and among them its forms of conveyance invite the attention of both the antiquarian and the reformer. With short, statutory conveyances to handle the recorder's expenses would be much less than at present, and the fee which he charges the property owner could be largely reduced. The fact that the receipts of the office already amount to twice the amount which would reasonably pay all its. expenses, including fair compensation to recorder and clerks, demands a substantial reduction in the recording fee, and a shortening in the form of conveyance would emphasize the demand. The District, therefore, asks leg- Cashmeres, Henriettas, French Serges and Gingham islation making the recordership of deeds a salaried office, simplifying the forms of conveyance, reducing the fees paid to the recorder (not the compensation of the actual copyist), confining the appointment to citizens of the District, and providing that any excess of fees above the salaries and expenses for which prothe District. The office should also be brought | the marked prices tomorrow? into subordination either mmissioners or to the District court. The registership of wills should also be made a salaried office; but it may be wiser to consider the two offices separately, since the time appears to be especially ripe for a change in the recordership of deeds, and by attempting too much at a stroke both changes may fail. The republican Senate, which took a just and impregnable position in the matter of the appointment of Matthews of Albany to the recordership, owes it to the Distriet to crystallize into law the opinions in respect to home rule which it then expressed. The fact that a republican now holds the office will not of course alter the views on the subject of any fair and honest legislator, and the District expects the legislation concerning the office to be pushed to a vote in the Senate without any suspicion-breeding delays.

The meeting in this city today of the National Guard Association is an event fraught with interest to a large number. This gathering of the leading spirits of our citizen soldiery is of importance to the whole American people, whose reliance for protection in times of war and riot is in the national guard and not in the mite of a standing army that we keep as a aucleus around which to form an effective force in case of foreign or domestic war. There are in the militia of the United States. including the District of Columbia and the territories, a grand total of 8,052 officers, 103,290 enlisted men and an available force of 7,352,171. Measures for the improvement of the national guard, which is the working organization of our militia, are on foot and it thing else progresses, the militia statutes are automatic fastenings. This is to attract new custom. those of the earlier days, when wealth and population were small compared with what Scarcely a day passes without the occurrence somewhere in this country of a fire which destroys life. When the fire is over and the rubbish cleared away it is plainly seen why the fire was fatal. Yet on the very site of the burned building will be erected a new one quite as defective as its predecessor. Men know how to erect better buildings, but they do not want to expend the money, where it cannot be seen, and as between ten thousand dollars spent in visible ornamentation or a like amount in rendering a building fire proof or secure, the ornament will get the money nine times in ten. And this in houses to be occupied by the builders' own families. To be well insured appears to be of more consideration than to be perfectly safe. As fatal fires increase a new order of building will grow up with it, and safety rather than ornamentation will be the aim of the latest architecture.

By the recent decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in the Riggs will case the District of Columbia is held to be included within the words "States of the Union" in the treaty with France. The District is thus a state for the purpose of conferring privileges upon aliens. The same court has also decided that the District is not a state for the purpose of giving its people the right to bring suits in the Federal courts in those cases where the privilege is given to the citizens of a state. The District is also a state for the purpose of paying direct taxes, having contributed its quota under the direct tax of 1861, but it is not a state for the purpose of representation, though "representatives and direct taxes shall be apportioned among the several states of the Union according to their respective numbers." In short, the District is a state, whenever that construction gives privileges to persons outside of the capital, even aliens, or imposes burdens upon the District, and is not a state, whenever that construction is sought for the benefit of the people of the District.

Washington is unquestionably the convention city of the republic. Such important gatherings are announced for today as the National Board of Trade, the National Shipping League, the National Guard Association, the National Association of Post Office Clerks, and the National Colored People's Convention. As a culmination of its achievements as the meeting place of the people Washington needs a great convention hall, and the national celebration at the capital of the discovery of America by Columbus.

The ugly local jealousies that must exist with the World's Fair at any other point than Washington, to the great detriment of that exposition, are plainly foreshadowed in the words and acts of the representatives from the commercial cities which demand the location.

Mr. Cleveland's address at the judicial centenary yesterday was one of the best he ever delivered. The politicians say, however, that if Mr. Cleveland is desirous of material, tangible results in 1892, he should not begin to extend his hand for them too early. Mr. Cleveland should remember that the flowers which bloom in the spring, tra la, are nipped by the frost in the fall.

At the last meeting of Sorosis in New York "Marion Harland" made an earnest appeal for aid in erecting a Mary Washington monument at Fredericksburg and no objecting voice was heard, and still the monument is unerected. If not treason or heresy it may be in order to state that to the casual observer Mary the mether of Washington appears to be hoodooed.

A lady ought just as soon think of being without a pair of rubbers as to be without a storm cost. Just think of the dollars and dollars worth of—fine clothes you can spoil almost in a jiffy if you have not one of these protectors to slip on. It will more than pay for itself in a single shower. It will not be necessary for us to caution you against cheap quality stuff—Better not have any than a leaky affair. You can be sure of getting a thoroughly rehable one from us. The prices are low. We confess they are on a par with the ordinary sort of garments—but don't let that worry you—we can vouch for the exceptional values—the perfect comeliness of them—and paramount to all—their absolute necessity.
